

Keynote Speaker

John Calkins, ESRI

John Calkins has been with ESRI for 19 years and focuses on special projects that cut across the diversity of GIS applications and solutions around the world. Throughout the years he has focused on natural resources (forestry, petroleum), government, defense, intelligence, and science solutions. In 2000-2001, he also consulted to CBS for the television series "The District" which was the first ever prime time television series utilizing a geographic information system. Other notable projects include establishing GIS in Antarctica at McMurdo Station and producing ESRI's User Conference plenary sessions. Prior to joining ESRI, Mr. Calkins worked for Tenneco Oil Exploration and Production as a geological engineer.

Central Florida GIS Workshop September 21-22, 2009 Hilton Orlando, Florida

Central Florida GIS Workshop

Welcome to the Third Annual Central Florida GIS Workshop. Now more than ever, as our community tries to do more with less in a down economy, GIS can provide new ways to look at our available resources, improve efficiency through technology and thus reduce costs.

Let us bring to the forefront how GIS is helping organizations to achieve their goals to improve customer service and workflows, allocate sparse resources and increase revenue generation. The program is different this year – we have included many GIS training sessions along with presentations from the user community. Join us at the Vendor Exhibit Hall for a social, Map Gallery display and lots and lots of giveaways.

The newly created Central Florida GIS Workshop, Inc. is a volunteer effort arising from the work of a number of dedicated GIS professionals in the Central Florida region who have acted as the Workshop Committee since the Workshop's original inception in 2005. Its purpose is to provide educational opportunities, encourage data sharing, promote training opportunities and present information on current events to governmental, non-profit and private sector users of geographic information systems within Central Florida and throughout the State of Florida. It is a nonprofit organization qualifying under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.
